We are very grateful for your continuous support to the activities of ENGAGe. Your support is crucial in our efforts for prevention of gynaecological cancers and for providing most up to date information to cancer patients.

While treating cancer, patients remain in the center of our attention and tight collaboration between patient and doctor is needed for successful outcome. To have fruitful exchanges with patients those need to be informed correctly about their disease, options of treatment, its downsides, and advantages. An educated patient can make a conscious choice on treatment, helping doctors in their common effort.

We believe that the ENGAGe brochures constitute a powerful source of up-to-date information for patients from expert clinicians. These brochures are drafted with care by the ESGO clinicians, incorporating latest trends in cancer treatment. Every brochure is carefully read by a cancer patient or patient advocate assuring the language used and the content is fully understandable to every woman.

These brochures provide guidelines on prevention and treatment, summoning all relevant information in one place. ENGAGe is operating in 25 different countries and has thus a leverage of spreading the information Europe-wide, with the help of local country associations translating these brochures into local languages.

Brochures are on online as well as an offline source of information. By printing the brochures and making them available at hospitals, treatment centers and waiting rooms we can reach all cancer patient age groups.

We would like to affirm that we are convinced of big positive impact of ENGAGe brochures on cancer prevention and cancer patients' treatment.

We would like to thank you in advance for your further financial support.
