EDA is a sub branch of “Europa Donna”, which is an European nonprofit organization composed of many subbranches all over Europe.

EUROPADONNA is a Europe-wide Coalition of affiliated groups of women that facilitates the exchange and spread of pertinent information concerning breast cancer through the different cultures it represents.

These organizations have come together to raise awareness regarding breast cancer and to support the European women in their task to ask for better informing conditions about the breast cancer, to ask for the appropriate diagnosis and curing, and the raising of funds for the scientific research about breast cancer.

Ovarian cancer is often associated with patients who have had breast cancer, hence the critical importance of screening for ovarian cancer among these individuals.

This necessitates a heightened awareness among both doctors and patients, particularly women in Albania.

Cancer Care Albania

Europa Donna Albania organized a significant initiative called "Cancer Care Albania". For the first time, a Patient Organization successfully convened all stakeholders at a single table to discuss matters concerning Cancer and Oncology.

Attendees signed the 'Letter of Agreement,' emphasizing the need for increased funding for diagnosis and treatment, as well as timely provision of essential drugs aligned with international clinical protocols.
